To be taken under the wing of a professional artist as a student and be part of the construction and installation of a major solo show is a priceless opportunity. I had the pleasure of assisting Professor Stanislav with her recent solo show "River To Infinity--The Vanishing Points" in the MAEP space at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. I began my research and assistance in the Fall of 2007, and finished with the installation of the show on opening night the 24th of January, 2008. It was an intense, hands-on experience that I will take with me throughout my life as an artist. I am forever grateful to Professor Stanislav and the University of Minnesota for their support and generosity.
